Abstract expressions

In some cases, tiled surfaces will become almost kaleidoscopic in appearance, delivering a new elevated level of creativity when it comes to interior design.

From walls to floors,
kitchens to bathrooms,
decorative expressions can be presented in the form of geometric patterns as well
as multiple colour variations,
and even unique almost
swirl-like effects.

beyond colour

Explorations of otherworldly iridescent effects and decorative overlays that go beyond simple colour.

A trend for more 'out of this world' finishes and colourways has started to make itself known through tile design. These striking tile effects are set to show a significant increase in popularity in the coming year.

From metallic, layered hues to shaded variations, this trend can be beautifully represented through wall and floor tiles, both indoors and outdoors, offering designers the opportunity to inject a touch of ethereal beauty into schemes.

Transforming residential and commercial spaces alike, truly exceptional tiles that go beyond the norm are gracing surfaces, particularly in varied forms of green.

Texture in tiles has developed further than a simple structure in the surface. Thanks to continued developments in manufacturing technologies, tile designs are increasingly presenting more depth in pattern and structure, exuding a calming, sensory effect through a very subtle sense of movement.

calm textures

Evoking warming and calming appeal through subtle, detailed textures.

From multi-coloured fluting to different shaped tile reliefs, we have seen a significant shift in the dynamism of the dimensions in the latest tile collections.

Extending far beyond a simple 3D structure, these latest tile designs showcase a wide range of dimensions and styles that will bring striking statements to residential and commercial spaces.

Whether through retro-inspired palettes or pattern clashes and combinations, a nod to nostalgia can be seen through the latest modern tile collections.
